The target is white and is a kind of machinery. This structure is similar to a capsule in that it protects what is inside from the outside and any atmospheric conditions. In other words, it is insulated like the inside of a refrigerator. This object moves, serves as a form of defense, and is used by some troops. It may be air space related. This structure can hold people, life, inside of it and can be dangerous for any opposition. A humming noise can be heard at all times while this object of technology is in operation and it reports to a station communicating network.

CPYRGHT

Deep is Poland's debt to a well of góral creativity.

With his pulse on the unquenchable góral love for music, master craftsman Franek Mardula (left) tunes the back of a violin in progress.
For resonance, he chooses dense wood from spruce trees that grow slowly in mountain shadows. Górale songs often echo a tradition to which the Mardula clan belongs, that of the "zbójnicy," storied mountain brigands who once preyed on wealthy landowners.
